#1 - 00FOZ: ATW CUSTOMER STATES that he hears a whinning noise in the steering, see history. light moaning inside the car, drive with tech Caused by Test drove vehicle with customer to verify noise. Confirm while turning wheel, mainly to the right light moaning noise, not as noticeable turning to the left. With vehicle on alignment rack listen with stethoscope for any noises. Noise does not occur when using alignment plates in unlock position. Only occurs when load is placed directly to wheels and rack. Tech: BLAKE KISHPAUGH (634) Determine normal noise. Once steering is loaded the steering rack is providing power to motor and noise is from motor operating. Noise will be louder in one direction rather than the other due to load being placed differently while in operation. Currently determine normal noise from Steering gear motor operating while under load.	Warranty
